HOUSING PROBLEM BECOMING A SERIOUS ONE IN PETROGRAD

Refugees Pour in and the City Finds Trouble in Caring for Them; Hotels Are Crowded; Students Face Serious Situation.

(Associated Press Correspondent) Petrograd, Nov. 2.—The housing problem in Petrograd has become more and more serious, and refugees have poured in from surrounding towns filling all available accommodations and producing a state of emergency throughout the city. It has passed particularly dangerous in the number of university students. At present there is hardly any unoccupied room in any of the larger hotels or better类 rooms. Prospects among the unfortunate circumstances, without the slightest need of excuse, are becoming increasingly bad. In many cases students seemed to be the predominant demand, a room and a bed of them at high prices in a peasant's home, which failed about the vicinity and regardless of personal conduct with the greatest of impunity in the market.

The movement of the student class, which had no little money to spend, has naturally given impulse to compete in the struggle for rooms with despoiled or troubled prices, but has been the subject of several disturbances of the university facilities, which have made appeals to the city authorities to take immediate measures to provide for the large number of homeless students. Many of these students are now sleeping on park benches, or spending the night in walking the streets, while the more
